Saint Joseph's Institution will soon have its own charity arm.

SJI Foundation is being set up to support the development of infrastructure and expertise in SJI and other Lasallian schools, as well as support the attachment of Brothers from regional countries to these schools.

The foundation will "champion educational, spiritual and service projects that the Josephian community undertakes in Singapore and in the regional countries", SJI said in a media statement.

It aims to raise $10 million to develop SJI International and for other educational projects. While the incorporation of the foundation is still in progress, 20 SJI old boys have already pledged the first million.

The foundation's Board of Trustees will be chaired by Spring Singapore chairman and special adviser for Economic Development (Prime Minister's Office) Philip Yeo. DTZ Debenham Tie Leung (SEA) executive chairman Edmund Tie will be its deputy chairman.

"SJI Foundation will provide an important platform for Josephians to live out our alma mater's call to faith, service and community," said SJI.
